Information about the Hyperlinks on the Board

With the judgement of May 12, 1998, the district court of Hamburg, Germany has ruled that by providing a link one possibly can be jointly responsible for the content of the linked site. This can, according to the district court, only be prevented by explicitly distancing oneself from this content. There are links to other sites on the internet on several pages of this homepage. To all those links applies: We explicitly point out that we do not have any influence on the presentation and the content of the linked sites. Therefore we hereby explicitly distance ourselves from all contents of all linked sites on this homepage and do not adopt them. This declaration is valid for all links implemented in this homepage. The authors of this page are not responsible for the way the information provided on this website is used. As provider, we (Traeger GmbH) are responsible for the published own content on this website according to general law. Links to content provided by other providers are to be differentiated from our own content. Via links we provide "external content" for use, which are marked as the following: <http://...>

We are only responsible for this external content, if we positively know about it (also including unlawful or criminal content) and it is technically possible and reasonable for us to prevent its use (§5 (2) TDG), yet, we fail to do so.

However, links are always "living" (dynamic) references. We checked the external content on possible civil or criminal liability when first linking it.

According to the TDG (Teledienstegesetz = teleservices law) we are not obligated to constantly check the content we link in our articles on changes that could ground new liabilities. Only when we discover or our attention is drawn to it by a third party, that a concrete article we linked triggers civil or criminal liability, we will cancel the link to this article, if technically possible and reasonable. The technical possibility and reasonableness is not influenced by the fact that it is still possible to access the illegal and criminal article from other servers after we ourselves removed the link from our homepage.

Trademark Infringement

If you think that this website violates one of your protective rights, please immediately contact us about it via email, so that we can quickly resolve the issue.

Please note: The time-consuming involvement of a lawyer in order to send a written warning billable to the service provider does not correspond to the priver's true or presumable intention.
